JSO MEDIA RELEASE

JSO Chorus Chamber Choir Performance Joondalup Festival 2025

The Joondalup Symphony Orchestra (JSO) Chorus delivered a stirring and memorable performance as part of the Joondalup Festival 2025, transforming the City of Joondalup Council Civic Chambers into a vibrant celebration of community and choral music.

Presented on Sunday, 16 March 2025, the performance featured two sold out sessions, welcoming community members to experience the power and beauty of live choral performance in a unique civic setting.

Under the direction of award-winning choral director Pia Harris, the JSO Chorus presented a dynamic program of soaring melodies and rich harmonies, showcasing both artistic excellence and the depth of local talent within the ensemble. The performance highlighted the Chorus's ongoing commitment to accessible, high-quality music-making and meaningful community engagement.

The Civic Chambers provided an intimate and distinctive venue, reinforcing the role of civic spaces as places for cultural expression and shared experiences. As part of the broader Joondalup Festival program, the performance contributed to activating the city centre and enhancing the festival's diverse offering of arts and cultural events.

JSO sincerely acknowledges Pia Harris for her outstanding artistry, leadership, and the strong sense of community she fosters within the JSO Chorus. Her direction continues to inspire performers and audiences alike while strengthening participation in the performing arts across the region.

“The City of Joondalup’s support made it possible for the JSO Chorus to deliver a high-quality performance in a civic space that truly brought the community together. We’re proud to showcase local talent at the Joondalup Festival and grateful for the City’s continued commitment to accessible and inclusive arts experiences.” MICHAELA JONES, PRINCIPAL MUSIC DIRECTOR, JOONDALUP SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

This project was made possible by the City of Joondalup’s Community Funding program, whose support enabled the JSO Chorus to present this performance as part of one of the City’s flagship cultural events.

The Joondalup Symphony Orchestra & Chorus remains committed to delivering inclusive, community-focused musical experiences and looks forward to continuing its partnership with the City of Joondalup in supporting arts, culture, and local talent.
